On May 1, 2025, Keeley-Teton Advisors, LLC (“Keeley Teton”) announced that it had agreed to transfer its investment management business to its affiliate, Gabelli Funds, LLC (the “Transaction”). The Transaction will not result in any change to the services provided under the investment advisory agreement. In addition, Gabelli Funds, LLC will assume Keeley Teton’s obligations under the Operating Expenses Limitation Agreement.

	Class A (KMDVX)	Class I (KMDIX)
Management Fees	0.90%	0.90%
Distribution (12b-1) Fees	0.25%	0.00%
Other Expenses	0.26%	0.26%
Total Annual Fund Operating Expenses	1.41%	1.16%

Total Annual Fund Operating Expenses After Fee Waiver and/or Expense Reimbursement ^(a)	1.20%	0.95%

^(a) The Adviser has contractually agreed to waive a portion of its management fee or reimburse the Fund to the extent that total ordinary operating expenses during the current fiscal year as a percentage of average net assets for the Fund exceed 1.20% for Class A Shares and 0.95% for Class I Shares. The waiver excludes expenses related to taxes, interest charges, dividend expenses incurred on securities that the Fund sells short, litigation expenses, other extraordinary expenses, any costs that the Fund incurs from investments in other investment companies, and brokerage commissions and other charges relating to the purchase and sale of the Fund's portfolio securities. Any reimbursements or fee waivers made by the Adviser to the Fund are subject to repayment by the Fund, to the extent that the Fund is able to make the repayment within its expense cap agreement. However, the repayment of previously waived expenses is limited to amounts that do not cause the aggregate operating expenses of the Fund to exceed the current expense cap or the expense cap in place at the time the waiver was generated. The Adviser will only be entitled to recoup such amounts for a period of three years following any such waiver or reimbursement. The waiver is in effect through February 28, 2026, and the Adviser cannot discontinue the agreement prior to its expiration.

Example. This Example is intended to help you compare the cost of investing in the Fund with the cost of investing in other mutual funds. The Example assumes that you invest $10,000 in the Fund for the time periods indicated and then redeem all of your shares at the end of those periods. The Example also assumes that your investment has a 5% return each year and that the Fund's operating expenses are equal to the Total Annual Fund Operating Expenses After Fee Waiver and/or Expense Reimbursement in the first year and the Total Annual Fund Operating Expenses thereafter. This Example does not include the brokerage commissions that investors may pay to buy and sell Shares. Although your actual costs could be higher or lower, based on these assumptions, your costs would be:

KEELEY Mid Cap Dividend Value Fund	1 Year	3 Years	5 Years	10 Years
Class A	$567	$856	$1,167	$2,047
Class I	$ 97	$348	$ 618	$1,390

Portfolio Turnover. The Fund pays transaction costs, such as commissions, when it buys and sells securities (or "turns over" its portfolio). A higher portfolio turnover rate may indicate higher transaction costs and may result in higher taxes when Fund shares are held in a taxable account. These costs, which are not reflected in Annual Fund Operating Expenses or in the Example, affect the Fund's performance. During the most recent fiscal year, the Fund's portfolio turnover rate was 12% of the average value of its portfolio.

PRINCIPAL INVESTMENT STRATEGIES AND POLICIES

The Fund intends to pursue its investment objective by investing in equity securities of companies with a mid-size market capitalization and that currently pay, or are reasonably expected to pay, dividends to shareholders. Under normal market conditions, the Fund will invest no less than 80% of its net assets (plus the amount of any borrowings for investment purposes) in "dividend-paying" common stocks and other equity type securities (including preferred stock, convertible debt securities and warrants) of "mid cap" companies, which the Adviser currently defines as securities within the range of the Russell Midcap[®] Value Index (the "Index") at the time of investment. The market cap range of the Index changes daily, and as a result, the capitalization of mid-cap companies in which the Fund invests will also change. As of December 31, 2024, the market capitalization range of the Index was approximately $355 million to $71.1 billion.

"Dividend-paying" common stocks have one or more of the following characteristics: (i) attractive dividend yields that, in the opinion of the Adviser, are relatively stable or expected to grow; (ii) that pay a small dividend, but could grow their dividend over the next few years; and (iii) that pay no dividend, but may initiate a dividend or return cash to shareholders in other ways, such as a share repurchase program.

In making investment decisions for the Fund, the Adviser employs a "value" investment philosophy, which is based upon the belief that, at times, the market value of an asset may deviate from its underlying ("intrinsic") value, and that the market price and the intrinsic value should converge over the long-term. The Fund seeks to invest in securities of mid-cap, undervalued companies that meet certain criteria identified by the Adviser from time to time. The Adviser focuses its attention on particular kinds of undervalued stocks and constructs the Fund's portfolio using a rigorous, "bottom-up" investment process that concentrates on individual companies (rather than on macroeconomic trends). The Adviser looks for stocks with sustainable, expected growth in earnings and dividends, and attempts to buy them when they are temporarily out-of-favor or undervalued by the market. Each stock is judged on its potential for above-average capital appreciation.

The Adviser believes that a track record of dividend increases is an excellent indicator of a company's financial health and growth prospects, and that over the long-term, income can contribute significantly to total return. Dividends also can help reduce the Fund's volatility during periods of market turbulence and can help offset losses when stock prices are falling. The Adviser reasonably expects that a company will pay a dividend or return cash to shareholders in other ways based upon the company's operating history, its growth and profitability opportunities, and its history of sales, profits and dividend payments.

The Fund intends to pay the dividends it receives at least annually. It is the Adviser's intention for the Fund typically to hold securities for more than two years. However, the Adviser may sell securities when a more attractive opportunity emerges, when a company becomes over-weighted in the portfolio, or when operating difficulties or other circumstances make selling desirable.

As long as an investment continues to meet the Fund's other investment criteria set forth above, the Fund may choose to hold such securities even if the company's capitalization moves outside the Russell Midcap® Value Index range. If less than 80% of the Fund's net assets (plus the amount of any borrowings for investment purposes) are invested in companies with a mid-size market capitalization, the Fund will not invest in companies other than those with a mid-size market capitalization until the 80% threshold is restored.

The Fund may be suitable for the more aggressive section of an investor's portfolio. The Fund is designed for people who want to grow their capital over the long-term and who are comfortable with possible frequent short-term changes in the value of their investment. An investment in the Fund should not be considered a complete investment program.

MAIN RISKS

Loss of money is a risk of investing in the Fund.

Equity Risk. The Fund is subject to the typical risks of equity investing, which include, but are not limited to: loss of money, company-specific risks, the effects of interest rate fluctuations, investor psychology and negative market or other general economic news. The value of your investment will increase or decrease, so your shares may be worth more or less money than your original investment.

Mid-Capitalization Company Risk. Investing in mid-cap securities presents more risk than investing in more established or large-cap company securities. Mid-cap companies often have more limited resources and greater variation in operating results, leading to greater price volatility. Trading volumes may be lower, making such securities less liquid.

"Value Style" Investing Risk. Investing in undervalued companies, including companies undergoing restructuring or emerging from bankruptcy, presents special risks, since these companies must overcome the investing public's negative perceptions, which may have resulted from any number of catalysts or events, including but not limited to, declarations of bankruptcy or corporate restructurings. Often, such companies are subject to specific plans imposed by their lenders that they must meet in a fairly short time frame. Generally, companies going through corporate restructuring are more likely than others to remain undervalued. "Value style" investing may fall out of favor with investors and underperform other investment styles. Moreover, there can be no guarantee that the company's market price will appreciate toward its intrinsic value, as estimated by the Adviser.

Dividend-Paying Stock Risk. The companies held by the Fund may reduce or stop paying dividends, which may affect the Fund's ability to generate income. The Adviser's approach in selecting dividend-paying securities may go out of favor with investors. This may cause the Fund to underperform relative to other mutual funds that do not emphasize dividend-paying stocks.

Market Sector Concentration Risk. In pursuing its investment strategy, the Fund, at times, may concentrate its investments in the securities of issuers in a particular industry or sector. By concentrating its investments in an industry or sector, the Fund may face more risks than if it were diversified broadly over numerous industries or sectors. Such industry-based risks may include, but are not limited to, general economic conditions or cyclical market patterns that could negatively affect supply and demand in a particular industry; competition for resources; adverse labor relations; political events; obsolescence of technologies; and increased competition. In addition, at times, an industry or sector may be out of favor and underperform other industries or the market as a whole.

Financial Services Risk. Financial services companies can be significantly affected by changing economic conditions, demand for consumer loans, refinancing activity and intense competition, including price competition. Profitability can be largely dependent on the availability and cost of capital and the rate of consumer debt defaults, and can fluctuate significantly when interest rates change; unstable and/or rising interest rates may have a disproportionate effect on companies in the financial services sector. Financial services companies are subject to extensive government regulation, which can change frequently and may adversely affect the scope of their activities, the prices they can charge and the amount of capital they must maintain, or may affect them in other ways that are unforeseeable. In the past, financial services companies in general experienced considerable financial distress, which led to the implementation of government programs designed to ease that distress.

Industrials Risk. Industrials companies are engaged in the manufacture and distribution of capital goods, such as those used in defense, construction and engineering, companies that manufacture and distribute electrical equipment and industrial machinery and those that provide commercial and transportation services and supplies. Industrials companies may be adversely affected by changes in government regulation, world events and economic conditions. In addition, companies in the industrials sector may be adversely affected by environmental damages, product liability claims and exchange rates.

Management Risk. If a portfolio manager is incorrect in the assessment of the growth prospects of the securities the Fund holds, then the value of the Fund's shares may decline.

Geopolitical Risk. Occurrence of global events, such as war, terrorist attacks, natural disasters, country instability, infectious disease epidemics, pandemics and other public health issues, market instability, debt crises and downgrades, embargoes, tariffs, sanctions and other trade barriers and other governmental trade or market control programs, the potential exit of a country from its respective union and related geopolitical events, may result in market volatility and may have long-lasting impacts on both the U.S. and global financial markets.

Infectious Illness Risk. A widespread outbreak of an infectious illness may result in travel restrictions, disruption of healthcare services, prolonged quarantines, cancellations, supply chain disruptions, business closures, lower consumer demand, layoffs, ratings downgrades, defaults and other significant economic, social and political impacts. Such events may adversely affect the Fund, its investments, and the value of your investment in the Fund.
